

LAS VEGAS

THE SLOT MACHINE

... is treated as the seventh casino, using the same rules as the other casinos, with the following three exceptions:

- ▶ 1.) Dice placed on the slot machine can show any number, 1-6.
- ▶ 2.) A player must place all dice of one number. However, the number on the dice must be different than the numbers already on the slot machine.

Example: A player has placed 4's on the slot machine. No one else may place 4's there, including that player!

At the end of a round, the slot machine is scored as follows: The player with the most dice has first choice of banknote, the player with the second most dice chooses second, and so on.

As with regular casinos, no player can win more than one banknote. Any banknotes that are not won are placed in the discard pile.

- ▶ 3.) If two or more players have tied for the most dice placed on the slot machine, the winner is the player whose dice have the highest sum. If that players' dice have the same sum, the player with the higher single die wins first choice.

Example: Denny places three dice with the number 3 on the slot machine. No player may place any more 3's on the slot machine during this round (including Denny!). Ben places two 6's, and Carla places two 4's. In a later turn Carla adds one single 1.

When scoring, Carla has first choice, since her three dice shows the same sum as the three dice of Denny (9), but Carla has placed the higher single die (4). Denny chooses a banknote second, then finally Ben ...
